OUR TOWN

Halloween is a very old festival. It was celebrated in various ways. In Roman Catholic countries Halloween is the occasion for visiting the cemeteries and laying flowers on the graves of friends and relatives. In Great Britian and the United States the night is celebrated by merry making and divination of the future. It's origin is vague and many authorities differ on its interpretation.

Get a copy of "Hallowe'en" by Robert Burns who tells how it is celebrated in the countrysides of Scotland. Whether this festival is the product of Gallic Folk Lore or whether its origin was purely a religious rite there is a difference by authorities. One thing is certain, however. It antedates the Christian era and is traceable to the Druids.

The Druids, an order of priests among the ancient Britons and Gauls. Little is known of them. The best account is found in the sixth book of Caesar's Gallic war. Like the Hebrew tribe of Levi, they were exempt from taxes and military service. They practiced their rites in the recesses of oak groves and held the mistletoe in reverence. This probably accounts for the weird setting that Burns mentions in his celebrated poem. Some have tried to picture the Druids as corresponding to the Magi or wise men of the Persians.

Brittanica tells us that: "Hallowe'en, or all Hollow Eve, the name given to the 31st of October as the vigil of Hallowmas or All Saints' Day. Though now known as little else but the eve of the Christian festival, Hallowe'en and its formerly attendant ceremonies long antedate Christianity. The two chief characteristics of ancient Hallowe'en were the lighting of bonfires and the belief that of all nights of the year this is the one during which ghosts and witches are most likely to wander abroad. Now on or about the first of November the Druids held their great autumn festival and lighted fires in honor of the Sun-god in thanksgiving for the harvest. Further, it was a Druidic belief that on the eve of this festival Saman, lord of death, called together the wicked souls that within the past twelve months had been condemned to inhabit the bodies of animals. Thus it was clear that the main celebrations of Hallowe'en were purely Druidical, and this is further proved by the fact that in parts of Ireland the 31st of October was, and still is, known as Oidhche Shamhna, "Vigil of Saman." On the Druidic ceremonies were grafted some of the characteristics of the Roman festival in honor of Pomona held about the 1st of November, in which nuts and apples, as representing the winter store of fruits, played an important part. Thus the roasting of nuts and the sport known as "apple ducking"—attempting to seize with the teeth an apple floating in a tub of water,—were once the universal occupation of the young folk in medieval England on the 31st of October. The custom of lighting Hallowe'en fires survived until recent years in the highlanls of Scotland and Wales. In the dying embers it was usual to place as many small stones as there were persons around, and next morning a search was made. If any of the pebbles were displaced it was regarded as certain that the person represented would die within the twelve months."

Final details of the financing of the $17,500 were completed this week when Mr. Avriett held a meeting with bankers, who are advancing the money to be paid by the state.

ED. HARRIS HIT BY TRAIN; LOSES LEG

EARLY MORNING SOUTHERN PACIFIC PASSENGER TRAIN CUTS OFF LEG

Ed. Harris was hit by a north-bound Southern Pacific passenger train at 8:45 o'clock Monday morning and his left leg cut off.

The Price & Oehl ambulance responded but the wounded man was picked up by a transfer truck for the Cameron Fruit Co., and taken to the hospital where an operation was performed and the leg removed.

It is said Harris walked up the track and was on the siding, believing the train to be on the main track. He was struck at slow speed as the train was pulling in. He fell beneath the wheels of the train and his leg caught on the rail.

His recovery is certain, is the belief at the hospital. Harris is engaged in business here.

BOOK SHOWER

A book shower was given recently for the benefit of the Yoe High Library. This was given in the form of a contest. All the students entered in with lively spirit and great enthusiasm.

The class giving the most books to the Yoe High Library was to be given a half holiday.

As yet it has not been decided, which class deserves the reward, for the amount of books was so great that all have not yet been counted. The students wish to thank the citizens of Cameron for the wonderful support rendered in this shower.

ARMISTICE DAY TO BE CELEBRATED HERE

CEREMONY, FOOT BALL AND AND STREET DANCE TO FEATURE FESTIVITIES.

Celebration of Armistice Day Nov. 11 in which all ex-service men in Milam county will be asked to take part is now being planned by the Edwin Hardy Post No. 9 at Cameron.

The celebration is an annual event for Milam county, bringing many thousands of people here for the festivities. Last year more than 10,000 people were on the streets at night for the big dance and carnival.

The celebration date is the annual time for enrolling members for the succeeding year and in compliance with the request of the State Commander the local post will join in an effort to increase its membership.

The local post will arrange a basket dinner for the ex-service men to be served in a down town building. There will be a feature for every hour of the day, the program beginning with a concert on the public square by the Cameron Municipal Band led by Geo. Fairleigh, former director of the A. & M. band at College Station.

The band concert for the afternoon preceding the foot ball game between Cameron and the Baylor Cubs will feature patriotic airs, songs and selections popular in the war days and familiar to the men who were in the army.

L. Van Perkins, coach of the Yoe High School believes he has made a good selection for the day's game in the Baylor Cubs, a team to play the Yoemen. The foot ball game has been called for 3 o'clock in the afternoon. There will be mand music at the Lawless Green Athletic field to make the program more interesting.

Fire works has been banned by Mayor Davis on request of the Legion. The Mayor has assured the committee that he will co-operate in making the day one of success.

The patriotic exercises in the court house will feature an address by Hon. W. G. Gillis.

The legion post has received four headstones for graves of men who died in the service and if this ceremony can be arranged these shafts will be erected on that day. However, it is probable that no time will be found on that date for the ceremony.

The Post at Rockdale will be asked to join the local post in celebrating the day.

The Municipal Band is working on a special selection of songs and airs for that day, including a dance program that will eclipse anything ever offered in the way of dance music in this city. The band has expressed its intention to co-operate in every way possible and its program of music for the day will bring to the band signal recognition by the people of the county.

The local post has arranged the following program:

SOPH PICNIC.

A few weeks ago the students of the Sophomore Class, chaperoned by Miss Tubbs and Miss Pitts, enjoyed a moonlight picnic only a few miles west of Cameron. Many games such as "ring around the rosy" and "froggy in the middle" were played, thus showing the jolly spirit of the members present. Ukelele music and songs were given by several of the girls before lunch. A large fire was built by the boys and then the girls roasted "weenies." The lunch which consisted of sandwiches, pickles, buns, cake and soda water, was enjoyed by all. Before returning home the class was again favored by songs from the Ukelele Girls.

CAMERON-CALDWELL MEET FOR DECISION

INELIGIBLE MEN BACK IN LINE FOR GAME FRIDAY AFTERNOON

With four men held ineligible by the ruling of the board and the University Interscholastic League rules, back on the team, Coach Cy Perkins faces the Caldwell team for the game here Friday with greater confidence and predicts a win by at least one touchdown.

It will be the battle of the century so far as Cameron is concerned. At no time has interest been so keen in a conference game as this year.

The slogan here is "Remember 1924." Cameron was defeated by Caldwell last year. The Yoemen are out after revenge.

It is said that this game will bring to Cameron practically the entire town of Caldwell and there has been a brisk demand for tickets.

The game is called at 3 o'clock at Lawless Green Athletic Field.

The four men back on the squad are Bagget, Moody, Baskin and Jeter. This gives the local team added strength and assures a great game.

Despite the fact that the commercial club voted against closing that day a great crowd is expected.

A feature of the game will be music by the Municipal as well as the Junior Band.

This game it is conceded will practically establish the championsip, although Caldwell was defeated by Bryan on last Friday.

TICKETS ON SALE FOR HOME TALENT LICEUM

A CHANCE TO PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY AND HELP THE SCHOOLS OF CAMERON.

Season tickets are now on sale for the Home Talent Lyceum Course, the preliminary announcement of which was made in a recent issue of this paper. The sales campaign is under the management of the History Club with Mrs. W. O. Triggs as chairman of the sales committee. The committee has set $1000 as the goal for advance ticket sales, and they feel that this goal ought to be easy to attain in view of the fact that this money will be kept at home and will be used for the benefit of the Cameron Schools, chiefly for the beautification of the school grounds and the improvement of library facilities.

The Course will consist of eight attractions and the prices for Season Tickets are as follows: Adults $2. High School students $1. Students of the elementary grades 5 cents.

ENTERTAIN FOR MRS. LONG.

Complimentary to Mrs. R. J. Long, who has recently come with her husband and family from Waco to Cameron to make her home, the palatial home of Judge and Mrs. John Watson was thrown open on Wednesday afternoon to invited friends. Mesdames John and James Watson were hostesses at this beautiful afternoon affair and their many friends gathered to greet the honoree, Mrs. R. J. Long, who is a sister of Mrs. James Watson.

The Watson home surrounded by attractive grounds was lovely with the beauty of autum. Rare roses in porch vases and wall baskets greeted the sight of callers as they arrived. They were welcomed at the portals by the charming Miss Winnie Henderson and cards were received by the little Misses Katharine McIntosh and Maidie Watson, who wore fluffy frocks in dainty shades. Little Miss Bess Mangum in dainty attire showed the guests to the dressing room upstairs. Mesdames T. J. Denson, J. C. Martin and Geo. T. Graves extended hospitality and directed to the receiving line, where stood the hostesses Mesdames John Watson, James Watson, R. J. Long and Mrs. W. E. Gaither of Rockdale costumed in attractive and becoming evening gowns.

The reception suite was given added charm by Premier roses. The ornate mantle was banked with the gorgeous blossoms from Cameron gardens. In the dining room and sun parlor Lady Hillingdon roses, cosmos and handsome ferns were used. The lace spread dining table bore a center piece of unusual loveliness made of saffron rosebuds. A bevy of prettily gowned maidens, the Misses Mary Lake and Harriet Henderson, Sallie Kate McLane, Lou Davis, Evelyn Alsworth and Gladys Watson served yellow and white brick cream and angel squares and pinned on bontonnieres of cosmos and ferns. Through the receiving hours, a musical program was given by Mesdames R. P. Jeter. A. N. Green, J. L. Clinton, Alex Triggs, and Miss Rose Rischar. Readings by Mrs. Edwin York and Miss Louise Berry were enjoyed. A violin solo by Miss Olive Henderson gave delight. Among the out of town visitors here for the reception were Mrs. W. E. Gather of Rockdale and Mrs. Emma Dossett Wilson of Waco.

In the all college circus, a colorful and brilliant social event given in Dallas last week, Miss Ella Pace of Haskell, Texas, S. M. U. Junior, was crowned queen of the brilliant pageant. Miss Pace is the daughter Mr. and Mrs. John Pace, who moved from Cameron to Haskell and is a beautiful and popular S. M. U. student. She is a cousin of Misses Dallie, Mary and Reba Young of Cameron.

The colorful program opened with the entrance of Miss Mary Ella Pace of Haskell, Queen of the Circus, seated in an ornate palanquin borne by figurative Ethiopians and accompanied by thirty Princesses. The Longhorn Band from the University of Texas, their Cossac uniforms more esplendent than ever under the floodlights that illumined the field, led the procession. The parade of nations, Russia, Italy, Scotland, England, Spain, Egypt and Turkey, each represented by a young woman in costume and escorted by a company of Dallas high school cadets.

THE ELLEN CAVER CLASS.

A night when mystic spirits are abroad; a night when witch and goblin (so they say) mingle with mortals in revelry and games; a night when solemn owls stare and radiant jack o' lantern peeps from windows—that is the night for party!

Arrangements are going merrily forward for the Halloween party to be given by the Ellen Caver Class of the Baptist church on Thursday evening, October 29. All active members, present and prospective are asked to be on hand at 7:30 at the Sunday School Annex. The chairman refuses to divulge the program further than to admit that there will be jolly stunts and a chance to look into the future.

COUNTRY CLUB.

Preparations are being made for an enjoyable evening at the Cameron Country Club on Friday, October 30. The members of the club are to enjoy a Halloween party on that night. Games and dancing will be the diversion. The following committees have been appointed.

Decorating committee — Mesdames B. F. Bonds, chairman; Alex Triggs, S. A. Cottle, Albert Triggs, Wiley Mangum and John Mangum.

Games committee—Mesdames John Edwards, chairman; T. J. Denson, James Watson, J. C. Martin, J. L. Clinton and Miss Mary Lake Henderson.

Refreshment committee—Mesdames Judd Davis, chairman; Geo. T. Graves, O. M. Smith, Wm. Cobb, John Watson, L. T. Lewis and Dan Tyson.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Episcopal church met with Mrs. Oxsheer Smith last Monday. Beginning, as always, with prayer, the business of the meeting was transacted, and the remainder of the afternoon devoted to a discussion, led by Mrs. Geo. T. Graves. The subject was the second chapter of "The World and I" and dealt particularly with the means used by Christian churches, for putting into effect their Christian impulses. The ably led discussion was not only interesting but most helpful.

The Young People's Service League meeting last Sunday evening discussed the part that young people may take in the best Sunday School work. Several important matters of business were discussed.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.

To welcome two incoming classes to the Intermediate department of the Methodist Sunday school, J. C. Tucker, department superintendent, and his corps of splendid teachers arranged a picnic in their honor at the Wilson-Ledbetter Park Wednesday afternoon. Picnic games afforded merriment and the lunches brought from home were spread and enjoyed. Mr. Tucker provided roasted viennas and toasted marshmallows for the crowd.

NO EXTRA SESSION SAYS SPEAKER FOLLOWING CONSULTATION WITH ATTORNEY GENERAL DAN MOODY

Austin, Texas, Oct. 26.—No special session of the Texas Legislature will be called at this time by Lee Satterwhite, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Satterwhite made this announcement Monday following a lengthy conference with Attorney General Moody. During the afternoon he went to the executive offices for a conference with Governor Ferguson.

Satterwhite said: "After conferring with the Attorney General I decided that there is no immediate need for a special session. If the Attorney General fails to get results in his investigation of the Highway Department, then there will be need of a special session. But I think the Attorney General is going to get results. At least there will be no need for a special session within the next 30 days."

Asked "what results?" Speaker Satterwhite said, "Why to straighten out the highway contracts and recover the excess profits on the contracts."

He said that there was no need for a special session on the foot and mouth disease, "because the matter has been straightened out through the Attorney General's opinion on the deficiency of $400,000. He said the State should pay the people for cattle slain, "but the money has not been paid yet."

It was explained that he probably would be in Austin for several days and would make a detailed statement later.

Opinion is Changed.

Upon his arrival in Austin early Monday Satterwhite had said that he would attend a session of the Legislature only if called by the Governor, or if assured that upon a call by him business could be expedited.

Before leaving Houston for Austin Sunday, Satterwhite had expressed the opinion that the public's desire to know more of highway matters would force the calling of an extra session. At that time he expressed the belief the Governor herself would call the extra session.

JOHN T. ORR TEXAS FARMER COTTON LEADER

ROMANTIC STORY OF AGRICULTUREAL LEADER TOLD IN FARM AND FIRESIDE.

By TOM DELOHERY
Associate Editor of Farm & Fireside.

John T. Orr of Texas is a farmer who was forty-five before he became interested in co-opeation and discovered that he had it in him to be on organizer, a big business executive and a leader of men.

Much the same story could, I know, be told of thousands of other farmers in this country today. That is one of the greatest things about the co-operative improvements. But John Orr's story is the most striking, his rise the most remarkable, of any I know. Fifteen years ago he was the uneducated son of a poor tenant, helping his children with their home work so as to complete his own schooling in the three R's, struggling up from debt there on his Texas land.

Today he is one of the most powerful agricultural leaders in America. His counsel is sought not only by farmers but also by the bankers and business men of the country. He put over and has since its birth been president of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association. It is one of the biggest farmers' co-operatives in the world. Last year it did a $40,000,000 business for its 50,000 members.

John Orr's father came to Texas from Jones County, Iowa, in a covered wagon. He was in poor health and had to quit work three years later. At eleven, John stepped in between the plow handles and became head of the house. The family, eight in all, held at the time a quarter section of the then famous Caruth plantation.

"I was big and strong; I didn't mind the work" says Orr. "What bothered me most was having to quit school. Sometime, somewhere and somehow, I determined, I would get more schooling.

I'll never forget how generous my father was. Small crops or low prices kept us from getting ahead no matter how hard we worked. We were mighty poor, but Father gave us everything he could afford. We never had to ask for money. The purse was always open to all of us children. Father always said it was our money and we could take as we saw fit.

"Some folks may criticize this method, but none of us ever took advantage of the system. I call it a wonderful training in self-denial and combating temptation. I do the same thing with my three children.

"I remained at home until I was twenty-eight. Then I laid in a stock of meat, bought a cow, a few chickens and a span of mules, one of them on time, and rented an 80 acre farm a few miles away. And then, with $32 to my name, got married to Eleanor Bassett, daughter of Jeff Bassett, a local banker.

"I handed my wife the $32 and told her not to hide it all in one place—that it was a lot of money for a little girl like her to take care of," says Orr. "She took me seriously and made that money last from October until the following April."

Orr found a merchant in Dallas who would extend them a grocery credit of $100 at 10 per cent interest and 10 per cent discount. As collateral he gave a mortgage on the mule he had paid for.

"Is this a good mortgage?" asked the grocer.

"It must be," replied Orr. "Everyone in town has it."

The next time he went to town he took five pounds of butter from two weeks' milking of two cows he had borrowed from a neighbor for the raising of the calves. He sold the butter for $1.25 to the grocer who extended him credit and promptly "blew" the money for bananas, strawberries and the first roast of beef he had been able to buy since he was married. Company coming on Sunday—that was the reason for the splurge.

"I had a great time buying those things," Orr told me, "but when I reached home and handed them to my wife I noticed she didn't look so pleased."

"'What have I done, darling?' I asked

"'What did you do with the butter money?'

"'I bought these things for Sunday, but if you're going to act like that I'll give you the $1.25.'

"'I don't want your old money! But I thought you'd pay it on the grocery note so I could feel I was helping you.'

"Then she had a good cry and I got all choked up and promised never to do it again. That was my first lesson in real co-operation—it always begins at home.

"I had nine pounds of butter on my next trip. At the grocery I saw Mrs. Bryan Bery, wife of the mayor of Dallas, who was waiting for some of my butter. She paid the merchant 10 cents more a pound than he was paying me. Outside the store I asked her what she would give for the butter delivered in her ice box.

"'Thirty-five cents,' replied Mrs. Bery. 'Bring all you can. I'll get my friends to buy too.'

"I did, and soon I was selling enough butter, eggs, sausage, poultry, beef, veal, lamb, vegetables and other things direct to the consumers to buy all of our food stuffs, dry goods and hardware and pay for my help and other minor expenses. Practically all of the crop money was banked, and in four years I had enough to pay down on the 170 acres I rented the second year I was married. The land cost me $32.50 an acre. I turned it in four years at $56 an acre. Just a mile away there was a half-section I knew I could buy at $35, an acre.

"I didn't do so well on the new farm. From 1898 to 1906 cotton was worth but 4 cents; corn, 25 cents a bushel, and hogs brought $3 to $4 a hundred. This retail business which I had built up was about the only thing that kept us on our feet. My wife had one dress for best and I had a suit that was carefully put away every Monday morning. But we never stinted the kids. They were well fed, clothed and schooled.

"But while I didn't make in money during these hard times I more than paid up by educating myself. Occasionally when the kids were doing their home work they would ask me to help them with their problems. I never refused to show interest, even though there were many times when I didn't know what they were talking about. Whenever we'd get stuck I'd call Mother, who had trained herself to be a school teacher. I don't mind telling you that it was these 'home-work classes' that gave me what education I have today."

Orr's progress as a farmer won him local reputation. By 1911 his dairy herd had grown to where it was paying a good profit. By 1914 he had enough money to build a modern two-story home and to dig a deep well.

About this time C. O. Moser, now secretary of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association and American Cotton Growers' Exchange, became county agent of Dallas county. Mrs. Orr read his articles in the local paper and became impressed with his ability.

"John, I wish you'd meet our new farm adviser," she said. "I've been reading after him and he seems to know his business."

"I've all the county agents I want," said Orr. "All they do is to eat your food, make you feed their horse and agree with everything you say."

A few days later the county agent visited the farm and found that Orr's cattle were dying from tick fever. They talked it over and Orr agreed to work on a local committee to fight the tick. After a whirlwind campaign of 120 days, 136 dipping vats were built over the county, and some 30,000 cattle handled. Money to defray expenses was gathered from Dallas business men, Orr being head of the committee doing the collecting. Thus, at forty-five, he stepped for the first time beyond his line fences to try his capacities in a larger field.

His work won the confidence of local business men. As soon as the quarantine was lifted he got them to loan $500,000 to farmers for the purchase of purebred dairy cattle. Then he and Moser were appointed to go to Michigan to purchase the stock. Returning, he led in organizing a cow-testing association and later was made chairman of a committee to study varieties of cotton, corn, wheat, oats, barley and other crops best adapted to the locality. This work ended in the organization of a county seed breeders' association, of which he was made president. Next he led a farmers' fight that resulted in votes for good roads. On a second trip north he heard of the farm bureau movement, then gaining headway in the Corn Belt. Impressed with its possibilities, he investigated it fully and on returning home he took the matter up with prominnent farmers over the state. A meeting was called to discuss the plan. Orr told what he had found, and when they organized he was named president.

He served two years in this office and put its strength behind various commodity marketing associations. In Texas the wheat, alfalfa, grain, sorghum, fig, broom-corn, watermelon and cotton growers have been organized to sell their own products. The last-mentioned body is the largest of the group, since cotton is a big crop in the state. When it was formed four years ago Orr was made president, and president he still is. Under his guidance, despite all kinds of opposition, it has grown to 50,000 members.

John Orr is still a farmer. He takes great pride in his farm and his herd of purebred Holsteins, which replaced the grade stock he started with. His cattle are good enough to win prizes at the Dallas, Fort Worth and other shows. In 1920 he had the junior champion bull at the Dallas fair, and sold him for $1,000. Outside the ring his stock has done well too. Two of his heifers have made state records.

ALL OUT OF SORTS?

So Was This Cameron Woman Who Tells Her Experience.

All too often women accept their pains and aches as natural to their sex. They fail to realize that weak kidneys are often to blame for that backache, those headaches, dizzy spells and that tired, depressed feeling. Thousands have found new health and strength by helping the weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills—a stimulant dieuretic. This Cameron case is one of many:

Mrs. H. D. Reynolds, 104 North Crockett Ave., says: "My kidneys were sluggish and I had a constant, bearing down pain through the small of my back. I also had a lameness and soreness in my back and I felt worn out and run down. I was troubled with dizzy spells when little black spots darted before my eyes. After using Doan's Pills from the Jackson & Read Pharmacy, kidney trouble left me."

ROADS AND TRADE.

If a family in a country location find a good road leading 15 miles to one trading center, and a poor road leading only 10 miles to a second community, they will commonly choose the more distant town at the end of the good road as the place to do business.

A faimly may be so tied up with business relations with a certain market town, that it can not all at once break loose and go somewhere else. A farmer or business man may be using certain banks or selling to certain trade, so it would be a matter of some loss and inconvenience for him to go elsewhere to make his purchases. So if the road between his home and such a town gets out of repair, he may not all at once go somewhere else.

The fact that people will stand such conditions for a time, lead many unprogressive towns to think they will stand them indefinitely. But if conditions on a town's streets continue bad too long, gradually a good part of its business will drift away.

A town may keep its own streets in good shape, but its near by neighbors may let their streets run down, so that the people from still further away find it incovenient to get at this center. But if a city keeps up its own streets, it gives a favorable impression for people to see that the moment they get inside the limits of that city, the roads are good. That gives the idea that it is an up to date place.

So many cities have rough street surfaces that one with smooth streets shines by contrast. And a city that keeps up its streets acts as an incentive to its near neighbors to do the same. So when a town improves its sereets, the improvement is likely to spread out to near by localities, creating a kind of good roads district, to the center of which people will come for business for many miles around.

VISION AND INSIGHT.

It is remarked my many idealistic people, that what this country needs more than anything else is men and women of vision. We do need shapers of public opinion who will not be satisfied to see the world move along in the old ruts to the same old goal.

But there is a quality not always possessed by people who have the gift of vision, and that is the quality of insight.

If someone comes to the person of insight with a glowing vision of social or community betterment, he expresses keen interest. Insight means seeing into the heart of things, and no one who does see into the heart of things, can be satisfied with our cranky world as it is.

But having approved the purpose of that vision, the person of insight begins to ask his experience, how these suggestions would actually work? How Would Tom, Dick and Harry take to this vision? Would they dislike it and refuse to help, so that the whole plan would blow up in failure? Or could the idea be put in such logical form, so supported by facts and experience, as to enlist co-operation?

The result when people put their faith in visions that are not practical is unfortunate. They spend a lot of energy in trying to realize impossible dreams. The man who quits digging on his farm to seek the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, not merely suffers disappointment, but he wastes time that could have been used to support his family.

But the people who have insight, who have that capacity for a clear view of actual conditions, also need to look out that they do not lose the power of action. Having seen what can and can not be done, they need also the power and willingness to go ahead and do the practical things that will realize the possible visions.

PUBLIC TASTE.

In some cities no one seems to have any appreciation of what is beautiful and harmonious. If a public building is put up or renovated, the work done is likely to be too ornate or have a certain course and raw quality. And yet a great deal of money may have been put into such construction.

Among a different type of cities and people, there is a natural inclination toward artistic fitness. If they are going to erect or improve a building, they seem to know how to find people to look after it who are familiar with good standards and know how to apply them.

I people want their city to develop in a way they will be proud of, they need to have all work or public buildings done in a tasteful way. Plenty of such competent advice can always be had to assure such pleasing development, but people must have some discrimination to know where to look for such counsel.

OLD AND NEW CITIES.

One of the most marked differences between the old cities of Europe, and those of the present day in America, is that the old cities had few or no trees. In the days when people were continually at war, their idea was to huddle together as closely as possible, and they did not have room for nice wide streets ornamented by trees.

A good many of the older towns in America were laid out on this same principle, whether because they were afraid of Indians, or because they failed to care for beauty. But a city or town without abundant tree growth looks behind the times today. It seems out of date, the creation of an age when conditions were wholly different. If you want a town to have the modern touch, tree planting on all streets is one of the essentials.

THE PRACTICE OF HOARDING.

It is estimated that about $500,000,000 is hoarded by people who keep their money concealed about their homes, in trunks, drawers, and various hiding places. It is a dangerous practice, and a considerable proportion of these funds are lost. Also the people who own this money fail to get the interest on it that they might.

Foreigners are supposed to be the principal hoarders. Also some of these hoarders are just plain old fashioned folks who have a kind of uneducated suspicion of business enterprises, and they do not feel safe about their money unless it is where they can take it out every few days and count it.

Considerable money thus concealed is lost when houses burn down. Some money is hoarded by people who know better, but who are too indolent to keep it properly invested, and they let their earnings accumulate at home to a greater degree than is safe.

People who are familiar with the ways of the more ignorant aliens says that many of these people will keep money in their trunks in boarding houses, and when they leave their rooms to go to work, it may be very easy to get access to these quarters. Thieves frequently get a good deal by going through the personal effects of these unfortunate people. And probably these folks, after losing their money, will conclude that America is a very hard sort of a place for the poor man.

Many of these people are very much bewildered on reaching a new country and they do not have any idea how to take care of themselves and their money. The people who employ them, and those to whom they look as leaders, should see that they understand that they can safe guard their savings by putting them into good banks, and in that way they can make their money earn a dividend.

JOHN T. ORR INVITED TO SPEAK IN CAMERON

FIRST MONDAY TO FEATURE PRESIDENT FARM BUREAU FEDERATION.

John T. Orr, president of the Farm Bureau Federation and co-operative marketing association of Texas, will deliver an address in Cameron on Monday November 2.

Arrangements with Mr. Orr has been made by the Commercial Club Committee arranging the program for the First Monday trading in Cameron.

Local newspapers are carrying a story about Mr. Orr published in the current issue of Farm & Fireside.

The Commercial Club has announced a program of encouraging farming by intensive methods in this county and expert Mr. Orr to assist in the promotion of this program.

Victor Schofflemeyer, agricultural editor of the Dallas News has been asked to address a meeting of farmers in Cameron in the early part of November, a date to be arranged by the committee on agriculture.

The club program this year has for its purpose an improved agricultural system and follows an address by R. Q. Lee of Cisco, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, made here recently in which the West Texas leader discussed the short comings of the farms in this section as well as over the Southland.

Already 20 negro farmers have been signed by the negro agent to enter the cotton contest and the commercial club has voted to offer prizes of $200 first; $100 second; and $50 third for the farmer who produces more cotton on five acres under the intensive cultivation plan.

White farmers are also signifying their willingness to enter the contests and the club hopes to have the best distributed competative farming engagement in Texas this year.

Jackson Fills the "Champion" of All Prescriptions Here

A Cameron druggist believes he has filled the champion prescription of all time.

F. E. Jackson of the Pace-Marshall Drug Company who is also president of the Chamber of Commerce received a prescription written by a negro doctor in Caldwell Tuesday to be filled for a patient.

The prescription called for thirteen different kinds of medicines and another acompanying it called for five different kinds of medicinal ingredients. One medicine specified was unheard of and no Cameron druggist seemed to know what it was.

Finally however, the prescription was filled and a bottle nearly as big as a quart container was required to house the concoction.

When asked by a newspaper man to give his idea as to what he considered the patient afflicted with, the druggist said: "Everything."

October 16, 1925, adopted clean up day of Yoe Hi, we find although the brains of the Soph boys failed to work, their muscles were well applied. Hon. Wm. AROUND THE COURT HOUSE

District Clerk Penn Wolf aside from his business of serving the people in that office, takes a lively interest in high school athletics. He believes the people should be more loyal in support of the foot ball and base ball teams. Monday and Tuesday Mr. Wolf interested himself along with other citizens in securing a conference with the school board at which time the rule suspending some of the players was amended so as to permit them to play in the Friday game with Caldwell and for the rest of the season. The rule however, will operate next year. Mr. Wolf counts this a good service for high school athletics and believes Cameron will be the district champions this year. Mr. Wolf owns some famous hunting dogs of the Walker strain and is known far and wide for his kennels.

Roy Law, the popular young tax collector, is a busy man these days, now spending the major part of his time out of the city completing engagements made several weeks ago for the collection of taxes over the county. Mr. Law has arranged a schedule that is proving convenient to tax payers. He visits every locality possible in the county and there makes tax collections. Money collected thus far has been more than gratifying to the collector and the county officials. From present indications it is probable that collection will not equal those of last year. The percentage of loss will be small. Recent rains have saved the farmers many thousands of dollars and they will be able to pay their taxes.

Mrs. Kathryn Robbins, superintendent of public instruction for Milam county, contracted a big job when she was elected by the Democrats at the last election. While the work of this office is taxing she has the ability to transact it in every particular. There are 108 schools in Milam county rural districts and school is in progress in each of these schools this year. The average rural school term is seven and a half months. She is striving for 8 months and in this way help the country schools to get more state aid. To this end, this week, she begins a canvas of 25 schools in the county now applying for aid in sums ranging from $100 to $1000. Lee Henseley of Austin, state inspector for rural schools, arrived here Wednesday. The inspection work began Thursday and will continue through Friday, Monday and Tuesday. With the aid now petitioned for the eight months term average can be assured for Milam county. "Yours for better schools" is the manner in which Mrs. Robbins addresses herself to the people of the county. She is intensely interested in rural education and wants to help the boys and girls of the country to have the best of opportunities for an education.

Miss Leila Woolley, tax assessor, believes in keeping faith with the people in administrating the affairs of office on a plan of economy. She annually turns back into the treasury of the county hundreds of dollars that could be spent for clerk hire. She retains assistance only at certain periods of the year, the remaining time taking care of the duties of the office alone. Assessing time will soon be here and she is preparing for this important work .

Efficency is the watch word around the office of the county clerk. Miss Lilian Atkinson, clerk, with her corps of able assistants are making good in the service of the people. Service features all details of the work in this office. Recently some important changes were made in the arrangement of the office which is working to an advantage both the office force as well as the patrons of the office. A service being rendered by Miss Atkinson to the press of Milam County is appreciated because it is more considerate than any service given in this office. She is prompt in the collection of publication fees as well as other fees due officials. Close attention to these duties has won for her the gratitude of the Milam County newspapers.

COMMERCIAL CLUB TO OFFER FARM PRIZES

$350 VOTED TO ENCOURAGE COTTON CONTEST IN MILAM COUNTY.

Cash prizes amounting to $350 have been voted by the commercial club as a part of its program to encourage farming in Milam county.

Farmers who enter the cotton contest of the Dallas News will have the prizes as supplements to the offer of the Dallas News.

The first prize is $200; Second $100; Third $50. They are to be awarded to farmers producing the most lint cotton per acre on five acres or the number designated by them under the cotton contest.

Geo. Banzhaf, county agent will assist the club by encouraging the farmers to enter the contest and Agent Williams for the colored farmers has already secured the names of 26 farmers to enter the cotton contest.

The details and condition of these prizes will be announced following the address here by Victor Schofflemeyer on November 14 when he will talk to the farmers of Milam county under the auspices of the Commercial Club.

This cotton contest is open to all farmers of Milam county both white and colored and will follow the plan of the Dallas News, in fact will be a supplemental encouragement to the farmers.

The club has gone on record as opposing half and half cotton and so has the negro agent. It is practically assured that the approved staple cotton or long staple such as planted in central Texas will be specified.

It is pointed out that half staple commands a lower price and while producing more pounds of lint cotton per acre would establish this section as a half and half cotton growing region and the market would discriminate against this section.

PIONEER CITIZEN AND MOTHER PASSES TO HER REWARD.

Mrs. Anna Miertschin, a native of Germany who came to Texas when only two years of age died at Austin last Friday at 12 o'clock and was buried at Thorndale Sunday afternoon in the St. Paul Cemetery.

The deceased was the mother of three sons and four daughters, among them being Mr. E. A. Miertschin and Mrs. John Urban of Thorndale. She was born Nov. 5th, 1850 in Reichnalde, Preusen, Germany, and came to the United States as a member of a colony known as the Wendisch Colony which settled at Serbin, in Lee county in the early days. She was married to Andrew Miertschin at Serbin in 1870 and to this union seven children were born, as follows: E. A., Bill and Eddie Miertschin, Bertha Miertschin, Mrs. Emma Schelnick and Mrs. John Urban, four of whom preceded her to the grave. The surviving children are, Mr. E. A. Miertschin and Mrs. John Urban of Thorndale and Mrs. Ben Schulz of Serbin, Texas. Soon after her marriage to Mr. Miertschin she moved to Thorndale with her husband, where in 1913 she was left a widow by his death. She is also survived by twenty-seven grand children and nine great grand children.

She was in bad health for many years and in 1897 she was taken to Austin and placed in the Ladies Home for treatment and later transferred to the asylum, spending 28 years in Austin, where on Friday of last week she was relieved of her suffering by death. A brief funeral service was held at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. John Urban in Thorndale Sunday afternoo, after which the body was conveyed to the St. Paul Lutheran church where Rev. Ben Miertschin of Noack, near Taylor, conduced a beautiful and impressive funeral service.

The funeral service was largely attended by personal friends from Lee, Williamson and Milam counties and the floral offerings were expressive of the great friendship she had enjoyed and the esteem in which she was held by all who knew her. The grave being literally covered with beautiful wreaths and bouquets. Interment was made in the St. Paul Lutheran Cemetery following the service.—Thorndale Champion.

Mr. E. B. Schneider came home from the hospital at Taylor last Thursday where he had been for the last ten days recovering from an appendicitis operation. Mr. L. I. Wilson brought Mr. Schneider home in his sedan and the trip was made without any ill effects to the patient. Mr. Schneider is fast regaining his strength and will soon be able to again give his picture show and oil business his personal attention. Mr. Alvin Schneider has been looking after his brother's business during his sickness and every courtesy possible was shown customers and patrons the same as that which has characterized the management given it by E. B. himself, who is as fair and unselfish as unselfishness is itself. Mr. Schneider has given Thorndale the best pictures along with the larger towns and whether or not the people of this community appreciate his efforts, we do not know, but we do know that his sincerity of purpose and square dealings deserve success and his many friends in Thorndale regret his unfortunate sickness and hope for his early restoration to health and ultimate success.—Thorndale Champion.

SMOTHERING

Texas Lady Tells How She Got Rid of Her Troubles.

"The first time I took Cardui, I was in an awful bad way," says Mrs. Ora Carlile, R. F. D. 5, Troup, Texas.

"I was afflicted with awful smothering spells. My mother had some Cardui in the house that she was taking, so she immediately began giving it to me. In a few days I got all right.

"Last fall I got run-down in health. I was weak and puny and I began to suffer with . . . I would get so I could hardly walk. Having taken Cardui before, I sent to the store for a bottle of it.

"Almost from the first dose I could feel the improvement. . . . I am much better now.

"Cardui has helped me a lot and I am glad to recommend it. I don't feel like the same woman I was last fall.

"My appetite is good now, and I'm sure it's Cardui that's made it pick up, for in the fall I had no relish for food at all, while now I'm hungry for my meals."

Robert Mayfield is Honored With Place On Theatre Cast.

The Herald has received the following clipped from the Daily Lariat of Baylor University:

Robert B. Mayfield, charter member of the Baylor Theatre says that Mr. Oliver Hinsdell, director of the Dallas Little Theatre invites Baylor Little Theatre to participate in a dramatic contest to be held in Dallas later this year. Mr. Hinsdell suggested that Baylor put on "The Little Stone House," by Lord Caldron, said Mr. Mayfield.

Mr. Hinsdell says that the Little Theatre is fast becoming the favorite type of entertainment of the day. "I am glad, he declared, to hear that a new one has been born into the family of the Little Theatre," referring to the Baylor Little Theatre.

Mr. Mayfield reports that the Little Theatre of Dallas is true to its name. He says that the building is of a small rustic type of architecture, with not more than one hundred and fifty seats in it. The stage for each play is modeled by a designer in minature form and built by carpenters. All scenes are painted by actors who have not gained full recognition as dramatists.

Robert says that Miss Francis Looney will in all probability will be one of the 30 for the Little Theatre. She has been given an opportunity and has made good.

Jack Taylor is starring on the Bear foot ball team and will be seen in action there on Saturday.

FILLING YOUR JOB.

The great secret of success in life is to be ready when your opporunity comes. The thing young men and women must keep in mind is that business is not concerned in the least with his or her need for a position but simply with their capacity to fill it.

The true business man or woman of today asks for work because they can do it. It is the trained mind that must be looked up to in actual business conditions. When it exists, there is no limit to where it can go.

The world is filled with wishers, hopers, dreamers—men and women who could mount high up the ladder of success, but who never will because they are not willing to pay the price.

And what a small price it is after all. Merely the spending of a few months in training from the unprofitable, wasted time in everyone's life, devoted to training. Getting ready—that is all.

Men and women with restricted earnings satisfy their consciences with the excuse that they cannot afford to go to the small expense involved, unconscious of the fact that they are giving the best reason in the world why they should make the necessary sacrifice—unconscious of the fact that they pay over and over all thru their lives, by restricted earning power, for the training that would return them a thousand fold for a small sacrifice.

If you are tired of long hours with small pay, if you want a better position with opportunities as well as better pay, them support your ambition with training. A few months in Tyler Commercial College at Tyler, Texas, will equip you for the business world, will put your services in demand. Send for the Free book, "Achieving Success in Business," and read how you can turn the wheels of commerce. Just fill in and return the coupon which is printed below and receive free the large book.

"MORE COTTON ON FEWER ACRES" GETS HOLD ON TEXAS FARMERS; IMPROVED FARM METHODS ARE ASSURED.

Thousands of visitors to the State Fair of Texas have stopped to inspect the 'More Cotton on Fewer Acres' booth in the agricultural building and to comment on the scope and value of the State-wide cotton contest sponsored by the Dallas Morning News and the Semi-Weekly Farm News in cooperation with the extension service of Texas A. and M. College.

A dozen of the finest stalks of cotton grown on the five-acre contest fields this year are on exibition in The News booth. Some of this cotton is of fine staple, measuring up to a inch and an eigth, while some of it is short staple. The stalks were picked from the contest fields and were not groomed for the exhibit. The purpose is to show how well fruited cotton stalks look under field conditions when farmed intensively.

One stalk brought by W. N. Hooks, Bowie County, carries 125 open bolls, all of superior quality of staple. Another fine stalk is from the field of C. T. Valentine of near Palestine, Anderson County, which is superior in staple and production. Mr. Valentine himself has developed his variety bearing his name.

Some Mebane cotton was sent by G. M. Adams, who was the winner in Smith County two years ago and raised eight bales of cotton on five acres and roused Texas to activity.

Other contestants in the exhibit are Albert Horton, Smith County; John W. McFarlane of Anderson Co. winner of the News $1,000 prize last year; Claud Ash and Newton Orr of Rusk County, near Henderson; W. L. Melton and J. R. Smith of Gregg County. Mr. Melton's cotton is of the King variety and is of fine staple and high production.

Awakens Interest

The cotton contest had awakened many backward sections of Texas to the realizations that large cotton yields can be obtained on less land planted to cotton when this land is intensively farmed as it should be. When farmers in the cotton contest make above two bales of cotton on an acre of land it is bound to cause discussion and even to arouse enthusiam. The cotton contest is pointing the way how to make cotton farming profitable for many farmers who have not found it so in the past.. It has stirred them to think, seriously about their soil problems and to discover new ways to increase their acre yields.

The farmers acre is his factory unit. By increasing the acre output through more efficent farming methods he is on the way to independence. Best of all farmers are encouraged to try their own methods which they deem best suited to their particular conditions. In this way much valuable information has come to light about making large yields which would have remained burried had it not been for the State-wide cotton contest. Publications of contestants' methods has meant much to those in and out of the contest. The knowledge becomes public property and must have a beneficial effect on cotton culture in Texas. In fact, the contest has set whole counties to working out their problems as never before.

Best Land to Cotton

One of the big results of the cotton contest is that the rich bottom lands of East and North Texas, which in many cases have been undeveloped and in many counties are still overgrown with huge trees, should be in cotton. Why should not the best land be planted to the States chief money crop? Cotton is cash! The higher the production of intensively farmed acres the better for the farmers growing cotton.

Some farmers complain that they can not raise anything like two bales on upland and that the bottom farmers have all the advantage. If this is a fact, then it is all the more reason why the bottoms should be planted to cotton. There are millions of acres of fertile but undeveloped bottom land in all parts of Texas. In East Texas, for instance, the traveler comes upon large tracts of this land which only perhaps a small part is in cultivation. It takes good land to make good cotton and it takes fertile lands to make high yields. Why not concentrate on thousands of acres of fertile bottom lands and put them under cultivation?

If last years cotton contest proved that bottom lands will yield more than two bales of cotton an acre, then it would seem that much of the unproductivity hill land or upland should be left in trees or made into pastures. The strange part of the whole thing is that many of the farmers continue to clear their hill land and not their bottom lands, which will produce from five to eight times as much cotton. Why not leave some of the unproductive hill lands as a forest? Surely there will always be need for lumber, as the supply is getting scarcer every year. East Texas has vast areas of upland suited principally to the growing of the long leaf and short leaf pine. It was a mistake 'perhaps' to clear much of this land for farming purposes. It would have been better to have cut only the marketable timber and allowed the young trees to grow into long sizes.

Poor Land Waste of Time

To plant poor land to cotton is a waste of time and money. There could be no more powerful example of this wasteful method than to cite the official figures of this years acreage planted to cotton in Texas, namely, 18,287,000 acres, from which probably less than four million bales of cotton will be picked. This less than one fourth of an bale to the acre and nearer one fifth of a bale. Surely there is no profit in farming in such a manner, when the economists who have been studying the production of cotton prove that less than one hundred and forty pounds of cotton lint on an acre costs about twenty five cents a pound to produce. What wisdom is there in raising cotton at a loss or at a bare cost of production?

The way out of this is to farm intensively. Farmers do not like the term scientific farming. They think that the scientists know nothing about cotton raising, but the fact remains that the scientists are nearly right. The Government crop figures bear them out. It is high time that the best land on a cotton farm be planted to cotton and not the poor land. If there is no best land then the farmer must start building up his land or he can not prosper. The land lord who allows his tennants to farm from year to year without a thought of soil building is robbing the soil. Soil robbing is unscientific farming, to say the least. Through the use of legumes, such as peas, clove, alfalfa, beans of various kinds and probably commercial fertilizer, when the the land is ready for it, soil can be rebuilt, but not all of it can be rebuilt in the same length of time nor through the same methods.

High Price Saves Growers

The fact that cotton has been selling for from twent-two cents to twenty five cents a pound is probably the only reason why many farmers have not gone broke. If cotton should ever again sell for below twenty cents a pound, thousands of its producers would be ruined. There is no telling what will happen if foreign countries with cheaper labor and newer land should undertake to raise cotton on a large scale. When that does happen, Texas farmers will have to devote special attention to their soils. They will be compelled to plant only their most productive land to cotton, because that will be the only land that will pay returns. When land does not pay dividends it will be abandoned. There is no use being pessimistic, but there is some sense to looking ahead to the day when keener competition form foreign cotton growing regions will be encountered. The man who fits himself to raise cotton profitably will be in a position to compete sucessfully, but the man who has let his soil decline to the point of no profit is lost.

The cotton contest is about to enter its third year. Much has been learned through the "More Cotton on Fewer Acres' contest. Many farmers have a new conception on the whole problm of cotton raising. In one stroke many of them have come to recognize that more cotton per acre is a desirable goal. No man can sit by idly and see his neighbors raise two bales an acre when his own land only produces one fourth of a bale. If such a man has any ambition at all he will be up and doing. Whole communities have taken up cotton contest idea. Little Gregg county has entered almost three hundred farmers in the contest and other counties in proportion. The idea has caught on.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

A gay Hallowe'en party was given Wednesday afternoon for thirty-six little friends of Lelia Batte. Her mother had decorated the home with garlands of orange and black cats, witches, pumpkins and the spooky emblems of the season. Miss Abbie Batte, assisted by Miss Geraldine Lindsey in spectral attire, invited all guests in to a room of horrors, where each had thrilling experiences. Misses Mary Bell Batte, Dorothy Denson, Harriet Flinn and Sue Griffin Webb as ghosts flitted here, there and everywhere making the party interesting to the guests. Lee Batte Harvey was the black cat and little Patricia Batte and Abbie Reese Harvey, as tiny ghosts, lent their presence to make this Hallowe'en party memorable. A salad course with hot chocolate was served in the dining room decorated with seasonable emblems. The table was centered with a handsome yellow cosmos arrangement. Fortunes were found and read by all the happy guests, who enjoyed this Hallowe'en party.

The Treble Cleff Club will meet with Miss Gladys Davis on Saturday afternoon.

PRESBYTERIAN AUXILIARY.

The meeting of the Presbyterian Woman's Auxiliary was held Monday afternoon in the parlors of Mrs. C. W. Lawrence's beautiful home with an attendance of twenty four. HALLOWEEN

HALLOWE'EN, which brings to most of us visions of fun and jollity, is an old, old vestival. The old Romans held it about the first of November in honor of Pomona, the goddess of fruit trees. In Briton the Druids celebrated a festival at the same time in honor of the sun god, and in thanksgiving for harvest, and the two festivals seem to have become one in the minds of the Britons. When the people became Christians the early church Fathers wisely let them keep their old feast, but gave it a new association by holding it in commemoration of all departed souls. Thus the eve of the festival came to be called All Hallow E'en. The name comes from the old English word halwe, or we now say, holy.

Many beliefs grew up about this feast, such as the belief that on this one night of all the year, the spirits of the departed were allowed to visit their old homes. In many parts of the old countries food was left, hearths were carefully swept, and chairs were set in order before the inhabitants of the village went to rest.

Many of the old superstitions, some of them going back as far as pagan times, came to this country with our Puritan ancestors, and though they lost their meaning long ago, we still keep some of the quaint old costoms.

THIGS TO DO ON HALLOWE'EN.

Ducking For Apples

Get ready two tubs, each half filled with water, one for the boys, one for the girls. Put in each a number of apples with long stems, each stem having a name very securely attached to it on a slip of paper. The fun consists in trying to catch one of the bobbing apples with the teeth; the apple must not be caught by the stem. The name attached to the apple is supposed to be the name of the future helpmate of the youth or maiden who contrives to fish it out of the water. The hands must be fastened behind the back for this trick.

Burning Nuts

Name two nuts and place them on a shovel held over an open fire— a gas log will do. Repeat this charm: Nuts I place upon the fire, And to each nut I give a sweetheart's name.

If either of the nuts pop together, and toward each other, the friendship of the two persons will propably increase and grow warmer. If, however, one does not pop at all, or they fall away from each other, the feeling will grow cooler and the friends will be divided.

Apple And Candle Trick

Hang by a stout cord, attached to a hook in the ceiling, a short stick about eighteen inches long. The stick must be fastened so that it will balance horizontally. At one end of the stick fasten a short piece of lighted candle, at the other fix an apple. Set the stick revolving rapidly, and let the players try to snatch the apple from it with their teeth.

Apple Paring

Peel an apple without breaking the skin, swing the paring around your head three times and let it fall to the floor over the left shoulder. The letter formed as it falls to the floor will give the initial of your future spouse.

Combing Hair Before Mirror

Comb your hair at midnight standing alone before a mirror by the light of a candle. If a face appears, in the glass, looking over your shoulder, it will be that of your future partner.

Winnowing Grain

Steal out into the garden or barn alone about midnight and go three times through the motion of throwing grain against the wind. The third time your futre spouse will appear in some mysterious way, of you may some intimation of his of her station in life.

Prophecy By Feathers

Take three small, fluffy feathers. On three small pieces of paper write the words 'blonde' 'brunette' and 'medium' and attach these pieces of paper to the ends of the little quills. To make the test hold up the feathers by their tops, and with a puff of breath send them flying towards the table. The one that falls nearest to you tells the complexion of your true love. The test should be made three times to make the prophecy quite sure.

Ghost Writing

With a perfectly new pen, dipped in pure lemon juice, write a number of charms, or prophecies, on small pieces of paper, and let them dry, when the writing disappears. Fold the slips of paper, and place them in a basket, from which each player draws one. When the pieces of paper are held over the flame of a candle or lamp, the heat causes the writing to reappear and the prophecy can be read This trick can be made quite mystical by appropriate ceremonies, such as reading the prophecies in a room dimly lighted by a small colored lamp over which the slips must be held.

One person should read the slips one by one, and can add to the effect by reading very slowly and solemly. The reader can be one of the players who has slipped out and assumed a long cloak, witch's hat, and a small velvet mask.

R. L. BATTE, JR., GETS STATE HIGHWAY PLACE

FORMER PEACE OFFICER HERE GETS BIG PLACE WITH HIGHWAY COMMISSION.

R. L. Batte, Jr., former peace officer and widely known throughout Texas, has received an appointment from the Highway Commission as superintendent of maintenance in 4 counties including Washington, Lee, Burleson and Roberson.

It was known that Mr. Batte had been sought out by the administration for work in the ranger service but the appointment was never made. John H. Bickett in whose territory these counties lie called Mr. Batte to Austin Monday and there in Conference with the Highway Commissioner was asked to take this important position.

Mr. Batte as well as his father, R. L. Batte, Sr., have enjoyed long acquaintance with Mr. Bickett, the latter having served as sheriff of Milam county. As an outdoors man Mr. Batte, together with his experience and general effciency, will make the highway department a valuable superintendent.

Highway maintenance policy will in all probability be well influenced by this appointment in this territory. Mr. Batte will spend much of his time at Caldwell as the convenient point of contact with his maintenance duties.

Turkey Conversation

We will open our turkey dressing plant on or about November 5th, and will be in position to handle all the turkeys you can offer us, but before we open our plants we wish to have a little conversation with you regarding turkeys.

The turkey crop right in our vicinity may be considerably shorter this year than last, but about equal to normal crop of the previous years and wish to warn those unreasonable aeroplane ideas regarding prices, that other states are raising turkeys this year that will be a factor. We nor anyone else can tell you absolutely what prices will be at this time but in our opinion we believe that prices will be some higher than former years. For example look at cotton, we in the drought stricken area that failed to raise our usual cotton crop feel that cotton should bring much higher prices, but, you see, someone raised two million bales of cotton more than last year, with the result that our idea of price failed to materialize.

We also want to tell you something about the marketing of turkeys. First follow the golden rule. Would you eat the turkeys and pay a high price that you sell, if you lived in some of the Eastern markets that your turkeys are being shipped to? We advise everyone to hold your turkeys on the farm untill they are in good, fat marketable condition, and turkey hens not weighing less than eight pounds and toms not less than twelve pounds. Turkeys weighing less than this weight will bring considerable less money this year.

If you will keep in close touch with us during this turkey season, we will gladly advise you free of charge when and how to market your turkeys to obtain the most money from your efforts.

Household Suggestions

PIES

Pies are generally divided into two classes: open pies, with or without meringue or whipped cream, and two-crust pies of pies with lattice crust. The best results are obtained when all the ingredients in the mixing of the pastry are exceedingly cold.

Lemon Pies—Grate the lemon rind of two lemons, beat together the rind juice, ten tablespoons of sugar, yolks of four eggs, until very light, then add two tablespoons of water, line a large plate and fill with the mixture, bake until the paste is done, beat the whites stiff and stir into them two tablespoons of sugar, spread it over the top and bake a light brown.

Banana Cream Pie— Mix three fourth cup sugar, one third cup flour, one eight teaspoon salt and add gradually to two cups scalded milk. Cook fifteen minutes in double boiler, stirring constantly. Add two egg yolks slightly beaten and stirr and cook two minutes. Cool and flavor with one teaspoon vanilla. Then add one or two sliced bananas. Put in baked pastry shell and cover with meringue.

Raisen Pie— Grate the yellow from one limon, discard all the white part of rind and seed. Chop the remainder of lemon and cup of stoned raisins together, add a pinch of salt, a piece of butter the size of a walnut, half a cup of molasses, one cup of brown sugar and two cups of water. Boil all together for five minutes. Then thicken with five tablespoons of flour. Bake with two crusts.

Pumpkin Pie— Stew the pumpkin until soft, and press through a sieve. To a quart of pumpkin allow two quarts of milk and six eggs, beat the eggs well and stir into the milk add a little melted butter, sweetening the taste, a pinch of salt, a very little cinnamon and a generous flavoring of ginger, pour into shells of pie paste and bake in a quick oven.

Use Lemon Juice—Rubbing the fingers with lemon juice removes the odor of fish or onions. A teaspoon of lemon juice in cup of warm water removes stain from the fingers and nails preparatory to manicuring. After a shampoo lemon juice is almost a necessity to remove the curd of the soap from the hair. This leaves it glossy and fluffy.

To Keep Olives— If you open a large bottle of olives, they will soon become tasteless before you can eat them. Pour about one- half inch of olive oil in the bottle and the olives will retain their flavor.

To Clean Windows— For a very simple and efficent method of cleaning windows and mirrors, first wash with a wet sheet of newspaper, followed quickly with a second undampened sheet until the glass is thoroughly dry. No soap or powder is necessary.

MILLION BAPTISMS HAD BY BAPTISTS

New Evangelistic Record for Nation for Five Years Set Up in South.

WOULD DEVELOP MEMBERS

Effort to Enlist Entire Constituency of 3,500,000 in Regular Giving Planned Soon.

More than one million new members have been received into the Baptist churches of the South by baptism alone during the past five years, according to a survey by Dr. E. P. Alldredge, statistical secretary of the Southern Baptist Convention. The exact figures, 1,037,550 baptisms, set a new record not only for Southern Baptists, but for any evangelical body in America, the records reveal. This achievement is equivalent to 24 baptisms for every hour, 576 for every day, 3,990 per week, 17,292 per month and 207,510 per year.

DR. ELLIS A. FULLER, Superintendent of Evangelism.

Prominent in the achievement of this result has been the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, with headquarters in Atlanta, Ga. This board, organized eighty years ago has, within that time, more than a million baptisms and 1,426,386 additions to the churches to show for the labors of its missionaries, while the agents of the board have within that period raised and disbursed in mission work in the South, Panama and Cuba the sum of $18,213,336.10.

Last 22 Years Productive

The larger part of these achievements of the Home Board has come during the past 22 years, covering the secretaryship of Dr. B. D Gray. Under Dr. Gray's administration the workers of the board have baptized 662,497 persons, received 1,122,344 persons into the churches and organized 4,997 new churches Within the same period the agents of the board have raised and disbursed in mission work the sum of $14,723,595.87.

The evangelistic department of the Home Mission Board has been its greatest single evangelistic asset This department has been without an active head recently, but the board has just called to that position Dr. Ellis A. Fuller of Greenville, S. C., and he entered upon his work October 1. He is a young man of college and seminary training and has been unusually successful in soul winning and other phases of work as a pastor.

Southern Baptists have been far more successful in winning converts and church members than they have been in the general spiritual development of the members, it is pointed out. In the hope of bringing about a development of the 3,574,531 members of the denomination to the point where all of them will have a share in supporting all the missionary, educational and benevolent work fostered by the denomination, an Every Member Canvass will be conducted in a majority of the 27,000 Baptist churches throughout the South, during the late fall and winter, the majority of the states employing the week of Dec. 6-13.

Would Enlist Every Member

The canvass will be conducted under the general auspices of the Co-operative Program, which is fostering state, home and foreign missions the Baptist schools, hospitals and orphanages, and the work of ministerial relief. The ideal toward which the commission is striving is that of every member, giving every week to every cause in proportion to his ability, through his local church. As fully as possible individual Baptists are being urged to give a tenth of their income to Christian work.

So extensively have the various missionary and benevolent enterprises fostered by Southern Baptists grown in recent years that it now requires a minimum of $12,000,000 per year to keep the work growing. Each state is being asked to provide its proportionate share of this amount. The state boards, in turn, are asking the respective associations in their states to accept definite quotas for 1926, and the associations, in turn, are asking the local churches to assume a definite proportion of the associational objective for the year.

BOOK SHOWER

A book shower was given recently for the benefit of the Yoe High Library. This was given in the form of a contest. All the students entered in with lively spirit and great enthusiasm.

The class giving the most books to the Yoe High Library was to be given a half holiday.

As yet it has not been decided, which class deserves the reward, for the amount of books was so great that all have not yet been counted. The students wish to thank the citizens of Cameron for the wonderful support rendered in this shower.

PREVARACTORS CONVENTION.

The prevaricators convention was held in the Yoe Hi Auditorium on last Thursday morning. Delegates from all of the classes were present. The experienced prevaricators of the Senior class were John Jeter, Bill Baskin, Joe Charles Burnett. They told the most alluring and lurid stories of their ancestral glory.

The delegates of the Junior class were Marguerite Ford, Arthur Adams and Bill Burns. They showed no conscientious scruples in telling of their many adventures.

Mary Bell Batte, Gardine Lesovsky, and William Henry Sloan, of the Sophomore class proved their ability to stand as prevaricators among any.

But the Freshmen, represented by Lois Robbins, Lola Clinton and Herbert Freeman came off victorious. Their marvelous account of the weather encountered in their travels made the wild raving of the preceeding delegates sound mild indeed.

The prize, a can of Giant Lye, seemed inappropriate as all of the delegates had not only entirely adequate but superflous supply at home up stairs.

It seemed that the joke was on the honorable Herbert Freeman when Mr. Perkins announced that he would turn the chapel program over to him for further demostrations of faces and his "tangoes," which he amused the back of the house with one day, but later Mr. Perkins acknowledged that the joke was on him.

On the appointed day Herbert gave us a rather amusing and entertaining program which brought forth quite a bit of laughter and applause. It seems that he has a natural talent for stage work (pulling cutrains but really acting.) His first part of the program was a number of poses of characters of Shakespeare. They were quite humorous and artistic.

The next part was an imitation of Padevorewiski and the next imitation of an orchestra. In this he displayed his ability as a musician and as an acrobat.

The most humorous of his program was the "Evolution of the modern Dance." This proved to be his most sensational act. He carried it through the stages of history from the Indian War dance to Dat Da Charleston.

As an encore Mr. Freeman gave us "The Dance of the Seven Winds."

This program was, in the opinion of many, the best chapel ever delivered on the stage of old Yoe Hi.

And, so saying the cat, "This is the end of the tale" as she backed into the lawn mower.

The Yoe Hi File, an independent paper edited by the Yoe Hi School of 1925, has been discontinued and in its stead will be published in this page each week. This space has been given to the school by the editor and in it will be given the weekly events of importance in the school life. We shall give accounts of social events, athletic contests, chapel programs, or anything of interest or amusement that will better Yoe Hi.—So Fight 'em Yoe. Lets Ride.

FIGHTING FISH.

Under the expert mentorship of Coach Lacy the Freshmen foot ball team has been making much progress. If this game little bunch of Fish continue to show that they will fight, and know foot ball as they had displayed during the past few weeks, old Yoe Hi will certainly have a championship squad before many moons have passed. The personal of the team include Puny Rogers, Mont Triggs, Sam Hazelwood, B. Wallace, Gardin Lesovsky, Alvin Roberts, Red Baskin, Tebo Cone, and that future all American—Lewis MacDonald.

Last week in the game with Thorndale the Fish proved what they were capable of doing when they held the fast Thorndale team to one touchdown.

"TALK ABOUT PEP."

October 16, 1925, adopted clean up day of Yoe Hi, we find although the brains of the Soph boys failed to work, their muscles were well applied. Hon. Wm. Henry Sloan, assisted by Richard Hefley washed the blackboards; Fredrick Graves (Soph Sheik) swept the dirt from the floor into the dust pan, held patiently by "Cotton" Roberts. Several of the Soph boys exerted their masculine ability by dusting erasers. The Soph girls (upon request) did much toward beautifying the room, by giving advice.

MODERN NEWS.

(Sue after being kissed by Paul)—"Paul dearest, why do you always close your eyes when kissing me?"

(Paul rather surprised but ready to answer)—"Well Sue, I'd love to think I was in Heaven, but who ever heard of a redheaded angel!"

"SOPHOMORE CLASS MEETINGS"

Last Monday, October 19, 1925, the Sophomores met to discuss the games and to appoint the Prevaricators of the Sophomore class. They honored Miss Mary Belle Batte, Master Wm. Henry Slone, and Master Gardine Lesovsky, all well chosen was the Soph's agreement. Each class held a meeting discussing the coming contest, they also did good choosing but the Freshmen were best of all. The Soph's never calls a meeting unless there is something of interest and business to be discussed.

A few days later the sophs called together all her members to plan something big for the coming Caldwell game. They were all willing to take hold and put all their pep into this game and back the boys to the last and they will do it! We hope every one will be at this game and put as much pep into it as the Sophs are.

The Sophomores are still receiving letters from Don Neighbors who was with us last year, the well known cartoonist. He is and more. There wasn't many things that Don couldn't do. The Sophs certainly do miss him but he keeps us posted on his activities from time to time. With each of his letters comes several cartoons which are more than interesting. This letter that has been recently received might be of interest to those who know Don.

Tulsa Hi School Study Period '25.
Dear Philosopher:

I am sorry I have not written sooner but—Trabajo hace la vida agradoble and I have been pretty busy. I reckon I ought to be spanked for not writing sooner, but golle-e-e! I'd gladly be spanked by you and all the rest of the ig-noble sophs, if I could just come back home.

How is the Focks Petrolle and the rest of the gang? I am making a developing thing now.

I tried my hand at stuffing a bird yesterday and nearly poisoned Buddy with arsenic powder and then the bird wasn't anything to be proud of, Oh, well—he was a sparrow any way.

I have been notified that you are treasurer. The class either knows you are awfully honest, or else it thinks you are too dumb to use the money, let us hope it is first.

Is Mr. Lacy still teaching? If he is, ask him the name of the stuff you use to sensitize paper for photographic work.

Escribes a me ud. Solo un mas tempo, y siguro yo lo respondo.

Adiose por ahora,

DON.

This letter was written to the secretary, Wilbur Crawford and was immensely enjoyed by all of the Sophs.

A Bargain—"When I get into heaven I'm going to ask Shakespeare whether or not he wrote those plays."

The husband chuckled "Maybe he won't be there."

The wife retorted—"Then you ask him."

An example for Dad. A father, after glancing at his boy's school report, looked over his glasses and said: "My boy, do you know that when Geo. Washington was your age he was at the top of his class?"

"Yes, Dad," replied the boy, "and when he was your age he was the president of the United States."

"JINGLES."

Two of a kind—(Dan)—"Where are you off to, Ben?"

(Ben)—"I'm going to see the doctor I don't like the looks of my wife."

(Dan)—"I'll come with you—I don't think much o' the look of mine either."

THEORIES AND FACTS

We seek for theories exact,
To pacify these earthly scenes,
And then there comes an ancient fact,
That punctures them to "smithereens."

OUR SCOTCH FRIEND.

The bagpipes skirl horrendous, and
His tall plumes wave and dance—
He'd be the wonder of the world,
If he'd only wear some pants!

BUSY FOLKS, WE SOPHS ARE.

We have a busy talented class,
Not one slacker, lad or lass,
There's our President, Harriet Flinn,
Covered with class work up to the chin
Next, her assistant, young Master Paul,
So busy with class work, no spare time at all.
Wilbur's another overworked boy,
He writes up the news, we hope you'll enjoy;
But this is not all Master Crawford must do,
He takes care O' the cash for the class, too.
We have a chairman, full of steam,
Holds a high place on the Yoe Hi team.
Oh! we Sophs are a busy bunch of folks,
That's the reason we haven't time for jokes.

SOPHS LAMENT.

(No picnic for the Sops now that Wilbur's gone.)

The Sophomore Class, as well as the whole school, regrets very much that Wilbur Crawford is leaving Old Yo Hi. He ranks in scholastic standing among the highest, also in the opinion of his friends which are many. In all his time in Cameron Schools he has taken part in all class activities and his absences will certainly be felt by all.

As Wilber goes into another town, our very best wishes go with him. We hope that later on life's cross ways that all the success possible will be his and we also hope that he will never forget old Yoe Hi and all of his Cameron friends.

SOPH PICNIC.

A few weeks ago the students of the Sophomore Class, chaperoned by Miss Tubbs and Miss Pitts, enjoyed a moonlight picnic only a few miles west of Cameron. Many games such as "ring around the rosy" and "froggy in the middle" were played, thus showing the jolly spirit of the members present. Ukelele music and songs were given by several of the girls before lunch. A large fire was built by the boys and then the girls roasted "weenies." The lunch which consisted of sandwiches, pickles, buns, cake and soda water, was enjoyed by all. Before returning home the class was again favored by songs from the Ukelele Girls.

HE'S DEAD.

Here lies a young salesman named Phipps,
Who married on one of his trips,
A widow named Block,
But he died of the shock,
When he heard there were six little "chips.
Kathleen Ely, we've heard her say
Has been without company for many a day,
So if any young feller,
Has something to tell her,
She'll gladly receive you—Please don't delay.
Dorothy Denson and Harriet Flinn,
With all their manners and sich'
Lost much of their dignity last Sunday eve—
After running their car in a ditch.

DITCHED DIGNITY.

While motoring in a Studebaker Sedan on a lonely road Sunday evening, a few of the Prominent Sophomore girls were ditched as the chaffeur was minding other interests. Although they had enjoyed their own solitude, they realized that they were badly in need of masculine help. They were loath to flag a passing car, but they must have left their dignity with the car, for they're back with us now.

How Doctors Treat Colds and the Flu

To break up a cold overnight or to cut short an attack of grippe, influenza, sore throat or tonsillitis, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the purified and refined calomel compound tablet that gives you the effects of calomel and salts combined, without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bed-time with a swallow of water,—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please,—no danger.

If Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

Says Backache Often Means You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, can not injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Well-Merited Success

Honored politically and professionally, Dr. R. V. Pierce, whose picture appears here, made a success few have equalled. His pure herbal remedies which have stood the test for fifty years are still among the "best sellers." Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a blood medicine and stomach alterative. It clears the skin, beautifies it, increases the blood supply and the circulation, and pimples and eruptions vanish quickly. This Discovery of Doctor Pierce's puts you in fine condition, with all the organs active. All dealers have it.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, say well-known druggists here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.
